

A dark, high-contrast, black and white photograph. The image is predominantly black with a grainy, textured appearance. In the upper left corner, there is a bright, irregular white shape that resembles a torn piece of paper or a light source. The rest of the image is dark and indistinct, with some faint, lighter patches that could be reflections or details of the surface being photographed.

Figure 2